

PRIVACY POLICY

The African Financial & Economic Crimes Academy (“AFECA”) is committed to safeguarding the privacy of visitors to our website. Please read the following policy to understand how your information will be treated.

The information we collect

You are not required to provide any personal information on the public areas of this website. However, you may choose to do so by completing forms on various sections of our website, including those concerning subscriptions to newsletters and other publications; notification of seminars, training courses and other events; recruitment; and registering interest in supporting AFECA.

How we use this information

Personal data submitted on this website will only be used for the purposes specified in the relevant part of the website and for other purposes for which you give your consent/opt-in. You can withdraw your consent/unsubscribe at any time by notifying us in writing at info@afeca.org.

Transfer of information abroad and disclosure to third parties

AFECA may transfer your information overseas to any office of the firm or any of our affiliates. Some of the firm's offices and those of our affiliates are located in countries outside the European Economic Area which do not have well developed data protection legislation when compared to European law. However, for the processing of your data the firm will at all times ensure a data protection level equal to the one in the European Economic Area.

Cookies

By using this website you are agreeing to our use of cookies. Cookies allow us to distinguish you from other users of our website. This helps us to provide you with the best experience and also allows certain parts of our site to function correctly. Find out more about our cookies in our Cookie Notice. To see what cookies have been set and how to delete them, visit www.allaboutcookies.org.

Confidentiality and security

The firm acknowledges that the information you provide may be confidential. The firm will protect and maintain the confidentiality of your information in accordance with the firm’s normal procedures and all applicable laws. AFECA is fully GDPR (General Data Protection Regulation (EU) 2016/679) compliant.

Your rights

AFECA has a legal obligation to ensure that your information is kept accurate and up to date. Please assist us to comply with this obligation by ensuring that you inform us of any changes to your information. You have the right to request details of the information we hold about you, to delete/rectify any inaccurate information about you and/or to unsubscribe from any service/s to which you previously consented. Please send a written request to info@afeca.org
